

BETH COOK

Beth Cook focuses her practice on products and premises liability, professional liability and construction litigation. She draws from over a decade of experience in state and federal courts to provide an in-depth understanding to the legal issues and factors her clients face. Beth's experience representing insurance carriers, contractors and other construction clients in trial and appellate courts and arbitrations allows her to develop innovative strategies that effectively resolve complex litigation matters.

Prior to joining Foran Glennon, Beth gained experience handling general liability and construction defect cases at a prominent civil litigation firm in Las Vegas.

EDUCATION

Beth earned her J.D. degree from the University of Dayton School of Law in 1999 after completing her B.A. in Political Science from the University of Dayton in 1995.

While in law school, Beth was a member of the Criminal Law Alliance and the Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity in which she was awarded the Chapter Award for Outstanding Service to the law school. She is a recipient of the Dean's Merit Scholarship for her outstanding undergraduate academic excellence and service.

ADMISSIONS

Beth is admitted to practice in Illinois and Nevada.
